which passed between the New York office and the Titanic survivors, and the efforts to get information.

"We attempted to establish," said the witness, "that we had nothing but rumors and that we had nothing but rumors."

Q—Did you ever with Mr. Marconi?

A—No, sir.

Q—Did you know whether any message would from the Marconi office or the White Star line in the Carpathia?

A—No, sir.

No Messages Censored.

Q—You have heard of any messages being held back or delayed from the Carpathia after she received the Titanic's message?

A—No, sir. I have heard of any censorship of messages from the Carpathia.

Mr. Franklin then asked whether to know what the regulations of the company to protect life on the boat were that he did not.

"We are entirely the agents of the line on this," he said, "and our part of the business has nothing to do with the value of the Titanic or the value of the ship's logs or papers were saved."

Q—Do you know whether the ship's log was saved?

A—It was not. I understand nothing was saved.

The witness was then asked a number of questions having to do with the value of the Titanic and the value of the ship's logs or papers were saved.

FANEUIL HALL MASS MEETING DEMANDS OCEAN SAFEGUARDS

WHEREAS, in common with all the people of the civilized world, we have been shocked and thrilled by the story of the wreck of the steamship Titanic, and believe that the loss of life which followed was preventable.

BE IT RESOLVED, that we express our deep sympathy for those who have suffered loss and bereavement through this disaster; that we protest them aid, if material assistance be required, and that we demand that the regulations of the company be revised in order to prevent the recurrence of such a disaster, and we will accept the responsibility of the company.

That the President of the United States and Congress be requested to take immediate steps by United action on the part of the maritime nations for the adequate protection of life on the high seas; That in particular regulations be established compelling masters and crews to be provided for every man being on board and imposing heavy penalties for the violation thereof;

That the installation of wireless apparatus of sufficient range and in operation night and day be made compulsory so that the entire ocean fleet may act as a life-saving patrol for any vessel that may be in danger.

That best lights, the use of the searchlight and all other precautions be enforced by law, so that calamities can be prevented in the future so far as human foresight may accomplish this result.

Resolutions adopted at the session held at Faneuil Hall.

Franklin stated that he never used the word "Titanic" in his speech.

Mr. Star Chamber Inquiry.

"We are not going to have any star chamber proceedings. The country has a right to know the truth about this disaster, and we will accept the responsibility of the company."

This statement, made by Senator William Allen Smith of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Committee investigating the Titanic calamity, showed today that the investigation would be the most drastic ever conducted by a body of American legislators.

When the Senate committee resumed its work today it was with the intention of bringing light to bear upon the disaster.

ISMAI BLAMES CAPTAIN SMITH

Denies Statement Saying Navigation of Ship Retarded With Commander.

NEW YORK, April 22.—That Captain Smith was solely responsible for the navigation and speed of the ship, and that the officers and crew were not to be held responsible for the collision with the Titanic, is the statement made by Mr. Ismai, captain of the ship, in a statement made to the press today.

When I met Captain Smith at Southampton on April 10 it was my intention to report to him the results of my investigation into the collision with the Titanic at that time.

During the voyage I was a passenger and assumed no greater rights or powers than any other passenger. I was not consulted by the commander about the ship's course, speed, navigation, or her conduct at sea. All these matters were under the exclusive control of the captain.

I saw Captain Smith only casually, as other passengers did. I was never in his room after the accident. I did not see him in the saloon. I had not visited the engine room nor gone through the ship and did not go, or attempt to go, in any part of the ship to which any passenger had access.

It is absolutely and unqualifiedly false that I ever said that the Titanic should make a speed record or should increase her daily run to 20 knots.

The only information I ever received on the ship that other vessels had sighted her was by a wireless message from the Titanic, which I saw in the morning. This was handed to me by Captain Smith, who said that he had received it from the Titanic on the afternoon of Sunday, April 14. I read the telegram and put it in my pocket.

Heads Captain Responsible.

At about ten minutes past 7 while I was sitting in the smoke room, Captain Smith came in and told me to give him the message received from the Titanic. I handed it to him and he said that he had received it from the Titanic on the afternoon of Sunday, April 14. I read the telegram and put it in my pocket.

It is not open to any of the officers on the subject. If the information I received had caused any apprehension in my mind—which it did not—should not have made any suggestion to a commander of Captain Smith's experience. The responsibility for the navigation of the ship rested solely with him.

It has been stated that Captain Smith and I were having a dinner party in one of the saloons from 7:30 to 10:30 on the night of the collision. Captain Smith was sitting with me in the saloon.

Each of these statements are absolutely false. I did not dine with the captain, nor did I see him during the evening of April 14. The dinner which I had, however, was at 7:30 and I was directly to my stateroom and went to bed.

ISMAI PUTS BLAME ON CAPTAIN, SHIP'S PERIL SEEN EARLY

Captain Smith came in and asked me to give him the message received from the Titanic in order to point it out for the information of the officers. I did not speak to any of the officers on the subject. If the information I received had caused any apprehension in my mind—which it did not—should not have made any suggestion to a commander of Captain Smith's experience. The responsibility for the navigation of the ship rested solely with him.

I felt a jar, and we went on our way. I felt the ship slow down, but on an evening over my passengers and went up on the bridge.

I asked Captain Smith what was the matter and he said we had struck ice. I asked him whether he thought it serious and he said he did not. I then went to my stateroom.

I was never consulted by the commander about the ship's course, speed, navigation, or her conduct at sea. All these matters were under the exclusive control of the captain.

Admits He and Captain Knew Soon After Crash That Titanic's Peril Was Grave

At about 10:30 I was sitting when the collision occurred. I felt a jar, and we went on our way. I felt the ship slow down, but on an evening over my passengers and went up on the bridge.

I asked Captain Smith what was the matter and he said we had struck ice. I asked him whether he thought it serious and he said he did not. I then went to my stateroom.

S SCHOOLBOYS ARE WARD EAGER FOR RACES

Have you entered the Hosting AMERICA swimming championship races, which will be held at the municipal swimming tank in the city of Moscow, on August 27? If not, then get busy and send in your entry.

Already a large number of youngsters from our grammar schools have entered, and some bona fide success is to be witnessed among the youngsters.

The grammar school boys need not fear the older fellows, as special entries have been arranged for them in which none of the bigger boys will be allowed to compete.

There will be two events for grammar school boys. They are the 25-yard and 75-yard dashes. The preliminary heat will be run off at the Cabot street building, Roxbury, on next Wednesday afternoon, at 4.30 o'clock, while the final heat will be held on Saturday afternoon, April 27, at Curtis Hall.

Get busy with your entries. Don't put this matter off another day. Do it now. Address all entries: Sporting Editor AMERICAN, No. 50 Summer street.

A large number of youngsters are sure to enter in the races for high school boys. There will be nineteen events. They are:

as follows:

- 25-yard race.
- 50-yard race.
- 100-yard race.
- 160-yard race.
- 220-yard race.
- 25-yard race (back stroke).
- Prizes for distance.
- Swimming medal water.
- Relay race. (Each team is to consist of four men and each man to race 25 yards.)

Any number of high or grammar school boys in attendance is eligible to compete, provided that he is up in his studies and that his entry blank is signed by the principal of the school which he represents. Now get busy and send your entries to the Sporting Editor, AMERICAN SO SUMMER.

SHOULD WIFE LEAVE HER HUSBAND IF HE DIES? WHAT DEMANDS?

Editor Boston AMERICAN

Among all the pathetic stories which have come out of the Titanic disaster, the ones that affect me the most are those of Mrs. Isidor Straus and Mrs. Jacques Futrell.

Mrs. Straus refused to leave her

New Remedy that Removes Freckles or Costs Nothing.

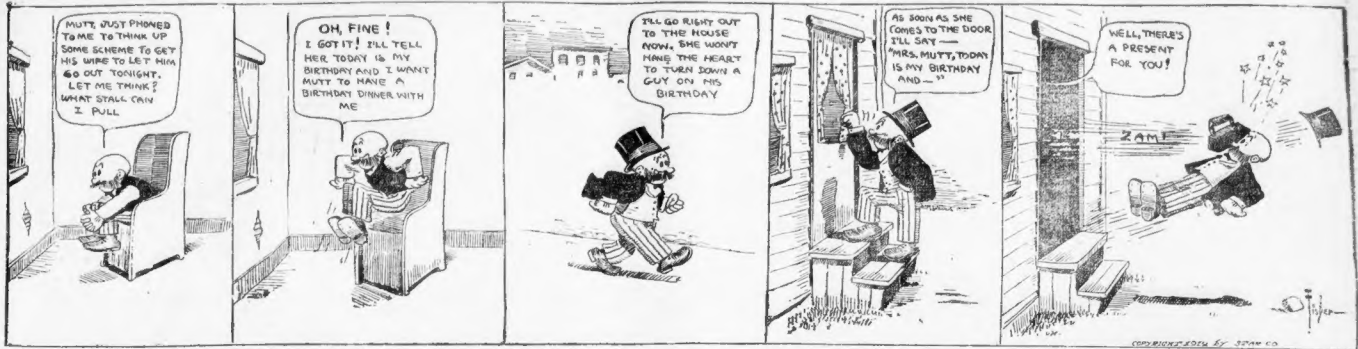

Here is a chance, Miss Freckle-Face, to get a new remedy for freckles with the convenience of a hair cream. It does not require the use of a pump or a brush. It restores the freckles, while it does 23 other things that you don't think of. The extreme is telling. From Houston & Dalton Drug House, or Riker-Jones Drug Co. you can obtain a bottle of this cream. It shows you from now on it is the most useful of all beauty freckles and get a beautiful complexion. It is the only remedy that costs nothing.

Write to ask Houston & Dalton Dr. or Riker-Jones Drug Co. for the double-acted cream, as this is the only preparation and one that will save you money that it fails to remove freckles.

To stop a blemish or in some instances get 25¢ out of a worth of yellow blotch and apply salubrity.

I—AT LONG RANGE. Away on the desolate Siberian plains Even Desmond has to throw, as best a plan has occurred to Desmond in conjuring of snowballs around his head to give it speed, Desmond launches the strange missile in the direction of Claude. A string of white beads was said it looked like—but oh! a deadly, swift, and the white beads may presently be called a chain that will span the unhappy combat to see it.

II—A FORGOTTEN CHAIN. Claude's keen eyes see the link of snowballs shooting rapidly toward him, and he thinks that they are snatched by a stick. As Claude had been in his day the most noted snail of his school, he suddenly remembers to turn to see again with Desmond, who was at her lover's discomfiture, and he, brave girl tomorrow you say, decides to use against his ruthless foe, he avenges.

III—A CHAIN OF SNOW. Whirling the heavy chain with its own force of snowballs around his head to give it speed, Desmond launches the strange missile in the direction of Claude. LAURELS OF INFAMY FOR J. BRUTE ISMAY

Copyright, 1912, by the International News Service

It Is Respectfully Suggested That the Emblem of the White Star Line Be Changed from a White Star to a White Liver

One Picture That Will Stay in the Public Mind

It Is the Picture of J. Bruce Ismay, Head of the White Star Line, SAFE IN THE LIFEBOAT Watching Fifteen Hundred Go Down

Copyright, 1912, by Andrew Joseph Kinsman

As long as the murderous disaster of the Titanic is remembered, the public eye will see distinctly one picture in the great tragedy.

That picture is the lifeboat that took Bruce Ismay, head of the White Star Company, away from the sinking Titanic to safety—leaving more than a thousand to drown because there were not enough lifeboats.

It was because Mr. Ismay and those associated with him did not care, or would not take the trouble, THAT LIFEBOATS WERE LACKING AND MORE THAN A THOUSAND WERE KILLED.

It was undoubtedly because Mr. Ismay was on board, eager to show what his new ship could do, that the captain now dead drove the iron city at high speed among the icebergs—dangerous as walls of granite.

And because Bruce Ismay was the superior of the officers in charge of the boat, the big man in the company that neglected human life, BRUCE ISMAY WAS TAKEN INTO THE LIFEBOAT, AND HIS CARCASS AND HIS LIFE WERE ROWED TO SAFETY WHILE MORE THAN A THOUSAND WENT DOWN.

The captain on the bridge went to his death—as he should go—with his ship.

And engineers and sailors, and old men and women and young children, the very richest and most powerful, the poorest and most hopeful of those that cross on the ocean—WENT TO THE BOTTOM TOGETHER.

And Bruce Ismay, who did not and would not supply the ship with boats, was taken to safety and now lives.

Bruce Ismay, what are you going to do with the other ships of your line?

What about lifeboats and life rafts for the other ships that you and your friends control?

You have heard the bitter words of Widener, the great millionaire of Philadelphia—one of the men that, with you, owns the White Star Line.

May you hear other words from him more emphatic, and may you hear especially from the Government of this country.

But whatever you hear, whatever you do, whatever your punishment may be, you will never wipe from public memory while you live that picture of the boat that took you to safety while a thousand were killed by the indifferent carelessness and brutal economy of which you and your associates were guilty.

The public will always see you as you sat in that boat—sailors at the oars and women around you—that boat, which, by the way, did not carry as many as it might have carried, and was therefore a boat safely loaded.

The public will see you as you went aboard the Carpathia, announcing with trembling lips: "I am J. Bruce Ismay."

The public will see you stowed away in that comfortable berth on the Carpathia, with the sign on the door: "Do not knock."

It is an unpleasant picture—it ought to be useful. It ought to make it impossible for any ship again to go to sea with owners gambling in human life and staking against the cost of a few lifeboats the value of a thousand human lives.
